

Friends of Cheltenham and Regional Cemeteries Inc.

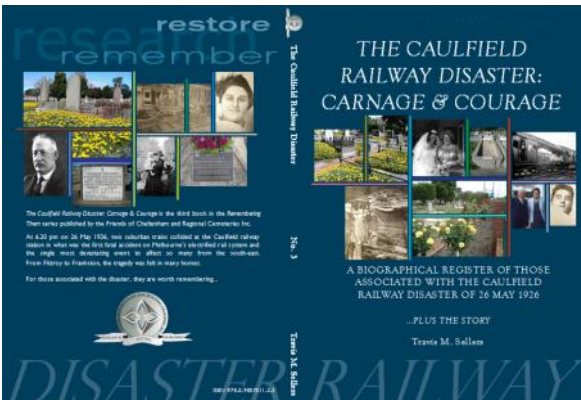

At 6.20 pm on 26 May 1926, two suburban trains collided at the Caulfield railway station in what was the first fatal accident on Melbourne's electrified rail system and the single most devastating event to affect so many from the south-east. From Fitzroy to Frankston, the tragedy was felt in many homes.

For those associated with the disaster, they are worth remembering...

Written by Travis M. Sellers, The Caulfield Railway Disaster: Carnage & Courage is the third book in the Remembering Them series published by the Friends of Cheltenham and Regional Cemeteries Inc. The A5-sized book comprises 172 pages and
